McAdoo Says Party Explicitly Declaring Liberal Policies Will Win

NEW YORK, June 29.—A letter written by William C. McAdoo in which he appeals to all labor organizations to exert themselves energetically, intelligently and unitedly against the re-establishment of reaction in America, was made public here last night.

The letter, under date of June 11, was in reply to a communication from John J. Murchland, secretary of the Metal Trades Council of New York city and vicinity, which informed Mr. McAdoo that more than 14,000 wage earners represented by the council recommended you as the most popular candidate for president of the Democratic party could possibly name.

After thanking Mr. Murchland for the "unselfish and unexpected endorsement" the letter continues: "We are facing problems in this country and in the world which require not only the highest order of statesmanship, but the most patriotic and enlightened support of an intelligent electorate. These questions must be met squarely and directly. Falseness and equivocation, appeals to blind passion and selfish partnership have lost their magic, men and women are thinking clearly, and it is only that party which has the courage to explicitly declare for liberal and progressive policies, and that candidate who is fearless enough to espouse them vigorously and sincerely, will command the respect and secure the votes of a majority of our countrymen in the coming election."

"The rights of humanity must be put above the rights of property, but the rights of each should be protected within its just limitations. As I said in a recent letter to the Metal Trades Council of Brooklyn, 'we can not look with complacency or indifference upon the restoration to power of these selfish forces of reaction which have been reasserting themselves with such vigor and volubility in America and throughout the world.' I hope, therefore, that your organization and all organizations of labor will exert themselves energetically, intelligently and unitedly against the re-establishment of reaction in America, and in favor of those progressive, humane and powerful forces which truly represent the interests of the great masses of the common people, and thereby secure to our country the benefits and blessings which the continued triumph of genuine democracy alone can give it."

Several reasons were back of the decision, the committee stated, the principal one being the present prevalence of "drifters" of various kinds which are being carried on throughout the country.

Amusements

Orpheum.

There is a certain quaint personality about Lillian Gonne that one just can't help admiring and therefore enjoying her stage endeavors. Sassy Little has been coming here for many seasons. To have seen Sassy Little once is to remember her, but she is again attend, but the next summer finds you at the red velvet wagon. There is more energy bundled into the four feet something of Sassy Little than one would imagine there to be found in George Brown's giant. With Bert Albert, Miss Gonne tears through a flock of pater, steps a few clogs and then whistles as only Sassy Little can whistle. She is the top attraction of the new bill at the Orpheum.

"Playmates" is a school-days act with a half-dozen partridges and one boy. The tab savors much of the Edwards even to the old style and reading-the-lythmetic coming. There is volume and color to the voices of the little ladies, indeed surprising. The youth gives two violin numbers, featuring Fritz Schaff's stand-by, "Kiss Me." Quite notable about the work of these juvenile members of the troupe, "Playmates" is a fifty turn for three-a-day. Jack Dunsell and Bell Tins are newcomers in an act that played this house two seasons ago. It is called "A Peep in the Eye" and is a comedy in three acts with a song interpolation or so. Herman and Shirley offer a novelty. Kramer and Krueger open in red uniforms with a lot of brass band.

Eugene Collins knocks 'em cold in "Sealed Hearts."

Majestic.

In choosing the right actor to play the role of "Walt" Larson in the production of "Walt Larson" at the Majestic, Tuesday and Wednesday, George Melford carefully considered the merits of a number of big names. The man finally selected was Noah Avery, who, besides being a man of great natural talent, is known as the master of makeup and possesses a physique of unusual power.

Princess.

Critics everywhere assert that "Princess" is one of the greatest picture plays ever filmed. The reason for this is that the philosophy upon which the story is based constituted a theme which at the present time has an unusually wide appeal. This production will be the feature at the Princess theater Tuesday only. "Mary's Ankle" will begin Wednesday.
